Acknowledgements

The authors and editors wish to thank the following who have helped in the production of this study by contributing their time and expertise: Edwin, Evelyn & Carmen Prado Nacaya, A. S. Linchangco, Suzanna B. Felizardo, Romeo Cahiyang, Filemon R. Cammayo, Anselmo S. Pañares, Jr., Alice S. Gregorio, Emmanuel M. Naval, and last but not least Bro. Andrew F. Gonzalez, FSC and so many of the Christian Brothers at De La Salle University (both the Taft and Greenhills campuses), e.g., Bro. Hans Moran, Bro. Ed Peralta.

Additionally, Dra. San Miguel would like to extend her gratitude to all of her students and research assistants who prepared slang lists by social groups which form a core of this present study.

Some of the data here has been incorporated from articles which have independently corroborated the results of our research. These include Joaquin (1980), Reyes (1981), and Yap (1986) which are listed in the reference section.

Preface

This represents the first printing of a Tagalog Slang database. Field work was conducted in Manila during July and August 1989 by Dr. Zorc. Prior to that, Dr. San Miguel had gathered thirteen group-specific lists of slang through student assignments at De La Salle University. Numerous daily periodicals in Tagalog were also scanned for popularized usage.

The recording of such neologisms is not without its own kinds of difficulty. When speakers were asked for slang expressions, their perceptions sometimes linked standard Tagalog words (like baklá' or púta) to this speech register. Thus, the editors double-checked all proposed candidates against the standard Tagalog-English dictionaries (listed in the reference section) to cull out such forms. It is our intention to provide definitions here for words that cannot be found in already existing resources. However, in a few instances, we have retained standard words because they are used so heavily as cross-references and because of their apparent popularity. It was felt that if some forms can move from the domain of slang to standard usage (as nice did in the history of English), so too can standard items become the domain of the man-on-the-street.

One area of response where the editors found it necessary to delete heavily was in the use of medical jargon. Since the word slang or isláng can mean jargon as well as street talk, standard hospital terminology appeared on some lists. Unless there was some unexpected meaning (as in the case of b.i.d. or t.i.d.), such field-specific terminologies were dropped.

Another problem area that faced the compilers and editors was that of multiple spellings (of English or Spanish loans or Tagalog coinages like diyahe, diyahi, dyahe, dyahi, jahe, jahi or chong, tsong, tiyong). Similarly, roots were found to occur alone or with multiple affixes. It was generally decided to select one form as primary and another as secondary based on the popularity of each respective spelling; alternate versions are are given as headwords in this dictionary; to do so would have resulted in unnecessary padding or multiplication. One should sound out or analyze a word and look for its probable equivalents before concluding that it is not contained herein.

The subject matter of slang includes curses and sexually-explicit terms that may prove offensive to some. We have consciously limited the use of four letter or X-rated glosses in English, primarily because Filipino usage is more earthy and less vulgar than its American counterparts. Nevertheless, we offer no apology for the inclusion of such words for the sake of completeness, since they can be found in equivalent texts treating similar topics in English.

Structure Of Each Entry

Each entry presents some or all of the following information:

1. the headword (Tagalog slang expression) in boldface
2. the pronunciation [given in square brackets], which includes an indication of primary and secondary accent patterns and of the glottal stop, here represented by an apostrophe ['] (none of these are indicated in Tagalog printed matter despite their importance in distinguishing words)
3. the part of speech that is generally associated with the usage of the Tagalog slang word (given in italics and followed by a period)
4. the English equivalent(s) of the Tagalog
5. where relevant, cross references to related words that may apply or an example giving the form in an appropriate context (set off in (parentheses))
6. background information on the derivation of the Tagalog slang expression (set off by < angle brackets >); if none is known, the entry is marked "unconfirmed"
7. the equivalent of the slang expression in modern standard Tagalog (= set off by an equal sign)

Please Note:

A FULL ENTRY has all of the above information; for examples see abogado, adidas, donselya, double blade, dyinggel, join sa club. Due to the preliminary nature of this initial publication, items 2, 5, 6 or 7 may not be represented in some entries.

A REDUCED ENTRY usually consists of an alternate form with a different spelling. At such is given a brief gloss and a cross-reference (SEE:). Please consult the main entry for more complete information about pronunciation, meaning, alternate forms, etc.

Grammar Note

The following affixes commonly occur on slang words. While a lexicographer normally tries to put most entries under the root word, in the case of our data we have generally put entries alphabetically where their most common occurrence indicates.

Coming To Grips With Tagalog Slang

by R. David Zorc

Tagalog slang is a tribute to the genius of the Filipino people's ability to make language fun and make fun of language. It comes from a variety of in-group ways of speaking (like that of students, jeepney drivers, movie stars, military personnel and gays) and makes its way to articles in the daily press.

Although this database has in excess of 4,400 entries spanning four decades, slang expressions may come about on a daily basis. Therefore it is imperative to understand how such words come into being in order to decipher new forms that you may encounter.

Some users of this volume may know me to be an avid etymologist. The same skills of etymological research can be put to use deciphering the coinages that have arisen in Tagalog. Here, I do not attempt to trace the origin of the words, e.g., who coined them, or when or where they were created. But I would like to outline how these coinages were made, specifically what linguistic processes were used. In so doing, we need to what can happen to them en route to Tagalog slang. Note that numbers in parentheses below indicate the percentage of representation in the current database.

Where Slang Words Come From

Philippine speakers derive their slang forms by borrowing from other languages, by giving new meanings to pre-existing words, by coining or creating original forms, or by using numbers as a kind of in-group code.

Loanwords

The most prevalent area of incorporation involves borrowing from various languages, where either the meaning or the grammar has been changed so dramatically that many of the forms would hardly be intelligible to native speakers of the donor language.

English (38%)

conference room bathroom [Eng conference room; Cf: c.r.] du perform sex, make love [Eng do] fifty half share [Eng fifty-fifty] jàging-jáging dance (especially rock and roll) [Eng jogging] jas-jas taken for granted [Eng just just] jínggel urinate, pee [Eng jingle] kómiks heavily tattooed [Eng minus one] minus one give someone the finger [Eng minus one] promdi hick, unsophisticated person [Eng from the (provinces)] rot be in agony [Eng rot] salbij torture or kill violently [Eng salvage] shower slippers [Eng shower] tikól masturbate [Eng tickle] toxic loaded with work [Eng toxic] vacuum try to please somebody [Eng vacuum, with the implication of sucking up]

Spanish (17%)

Since the Spanish period of contact had lasted several hundred years, words such as these have become "Filipino property" in the following ways:

basyó caught in the act [Sp vacío empty] bóla fat (person) [Sp bola ball, globe] de kahón bookish [Sp de of + cajón box, crate] kontrabída villain, bad guy [Sp contra against + vida life] masáhe beat up, flog [Sp masaje massage] nóta male sexual organ [Sp nota note (in music)] puégo smoke marijuana [Sp fuego fire] pumapél make advances to; try to please [Sp papel paper] sakáte marijuana [Sp zacate hay, fodder] tsítsa eat [v]; food [n] [Sp chicha meat (children's language)]

Bisayan (2%)

báyot homosexual [Cebuano báyot homosexual, effeminate] dakó large penis [Cebuano dakó' big, large (in general)] guráng old, aged [Waray Bisayan guráng ripe; old, aged] iti'íl athlete's foot [Cebuano ti'íl foot, leg] pisót uncircumcised [Cebuano pisot uncircumcised] sibát scram, split [Cebuano sibát leave without permission] tambók loose vagina [widespread Bisayan támbok fat]

Chinese (0.6%)

bakyá poor, tacky [Hokien bak wood + khiaq slippers] buwisít unlucky, inxed [Hokien bo n o + ui clothes + sit food] tong bribe; illegal collection [Ch tong money put up in Mahjong]

Japanese (0.5%)

asóka yes [Japanese a soo ka I See] doróbo trouble-maker [Japanese dorobo thief] sayonára goodbye! [Japanese sayonara goodbye!] sóndo peso [Japanese sondo village boy, probably derogatory, based on the picture of Rizal on former one peso bill]

Ilokano (0.1%)

awánti none, have no (x) [Ilokano awán none + ti (case marker)] duá two [Ilokano duá two] basét girl [Ilokano bassít little, small]

Kapampangan (0.1%)

alá none, nothing [Pampango alá there is none] buldét anus [Pampango buldít buttocks] utol brother, sister [Pampango kapútul sibling] yábang proud, boastful [Pampango yábang arrogance]

The second area of incorporation involves attributing some new or innovative meaning to a pre-existing word. These draw upon the large stock of inherited vocabulary, but undergo a major change in semantics. Some of these words may then return to the everyday lexicon, like landí' flirt which originally meant play in the mud. Other examples include:

Tagalog Words With New Meanings (15%)

aswáng mother-in-law [Orig: evil spirit] báwang fat person [Orig: garlic (based on shape of a bulb of garlic)] hiyás virginity [Orig: gem, jewelry] kánang kamáy important person [Lit: right hand] luto' game-fixing, cheating [Orig: cook] magpahínog be in agony [Lit: cause to ripen] nagladlád ng kápa showed one's true colors [Lit: unfolded the cloak] pagóng slow [Lit: turtle] pakó' ugly [orig: species of fern] tagá' commission/fee on merchandise [Orig: hack, cut] ube one hundred pesos [Orig: purple yam (based on color of the bill)]

Coinages (0.5%)

The third comprise coined vocabulary, which involves the invention or creation of new words. Although these may sometimes be based on other words, the new form is barely recognizable.

asucára de papa sugar daddy [Cf: Sp asukar sugar + de of + papa daddy] éklat act coy, pretend harurot fast, speeding [based on sound of a broken muffler]

Á

tigidig pimple, zit tyope quite, timid, reserved walandjó good! [Cf: Tag walanghiyá (expression of surprise)] walastik wow!, neat!, cool!

The Numbers Game (0.5%)

The last area involves the use of numbers in several inventive ways.

1-0-0 dead body [Eng one zero zero]
25 dose of LSD [Eng twenty-five, based on milligrams]
4-aces wake [referring to card game played at wakes]
12/25 Christmas gift [based on December twenty-fifth] 360 degrees zero, failure [number of degrees in circle]
1-4-3 I love you [number of letters in the English phrase]
1-4-3-2 I love you too [as above, except 2=too]
5-2-5-4 I love you very much [numbers of letters in Tag mahál na mahál kitá]
6-6-6 bad, evil [Cf: Biblical reference to the demon]

How Words Get Re-shaped

This area underscores the inventiveness of speakers when they play with the shape of words, no matter from which language they may come.

Word Play (31%)

Playing with words involves the re-arrangement of sounds. It may involve dropping or adding sounds or syllables to words from any language and appears to be the most productive mechanism for innovation in our database.

alvarádo wrist watch [Cf: Alba and Rado, popular brands of watches; popular Philippine movie star, Max Alvarado] balbon hairy [Cf: Sp barbon full bearded man] bayáwak brother-in-law [Cf: Tag bayáw brother-in-law; bayáwak monitor lizard] bimáy female house help [Cf: Tag-slang chimáy and Eng be bonifácio brave, daring [Cf: Philippine hero Andres Bonifacio] Dakota Harrisón large penis [Cf: Dakota Harrison large supermarket where call boys andd gays hang out, cf: Malay halis dangerous] dédo' dead, killed [Eng dead + -o] kimís marijuana [reversal of Eng smoke, with o > i] nénok steal, pilfer [Cf: Tag nákaw steal and Eng took] óto san servant [Tag utósan be ordered, but spelled as if it were Japanese; cf: Jap san] Taco Beach toilet [Sp cubeta pail + -ts, but spelled like a place with an English name] tápis kis my type [Cf: Eng type + GAY SLANG kis my = Tag ko with shift of o > i + -s]

Metathesis (10%)

This process is coded "M" herein. It involves switching sounds within a word, either by the inversion of syllables or by a complex re-arrangement of the letters. Note that this may happen to native Tagalog words or loanwords.

Syllable Switching

astig tough, unfeeling [Tag matigás hard] bígtu water [Tag túbig water] bokál bald [Sp calvo bald] érbi beer [Eng beer (using spelling pronunciation)] gásti bum, loafer [Tag tigás hard] siták taxi [Eng taxi] tótban stinky, bad-smelling [Tag bantót stench]

Full Reversal

This method involves reading a word "backwords" and is called binaliktád in Tagalog:

adárit woman lover [Sp tirada aimed at] atík money [Tag kíta earnings] ebaba female [Tag babá'e female] nítu penis [Bs útin penis] toyí sexual intercourse [Bs íyot sex act] wakángam thieves [Tag magnakáw steal]

The next two areas involve the shortening of words, in any possible combination, such as getting just a syllable or two from each of several words, or reducing forms to their first letters.

Reduction (9%)

This process involves the shortening or truncation of words.

anggé American girl [Eng A m(erican) + gi(rl), with assimilation m > g] ámboy American boy [Eng A m(erican) + boy] êbak excrement (Eng evacuate] lónta pants, trousers [Sp (pan)talon trousers + metathesis] múnti prison, jail [Tag Munti(nglupa) name of a prison] syáno provincial, hic [Sp (provin)ciano] transpo transportation [Eng transport] yósi cigarette(s) [Sp ci(garri)llo, with syllable switching]

Abbreviations (5%)

Most of these can only be understood by an insider. Some are brilliant puns based on well-known acronyms (like "CIA" or "KGB").

a.i.d.s suffering stress due to studies [Eng acquired insanity due to studies] b.y. good-looking [Eng beautiful (and) young] b.n.g. name of Manila street gang [Tag bahála' leave it to fate + na now + Eng gang] c.i.a. Imelda Marcos sycophant [Eng certified Imelda admirer] d.a. drug addict [Eng drug addict] f.l. banshee, wild woman [Eng fierce lady; PLAY on first lady]

g.k. goodbye kiss [Eng goodbye kiss] h.p. ignored, not noticed [Tag hindí' not + pansín notice] j.h. dirty, sloopy [Eng Jabba the Hut (sloppy character from Star Wars series] k.g.b. closet queen [Tag kung gabí baklá gay at night] l.t. loud laugh [Tag lakás strong + táwa laugh] p.w.u. whorehouse [Eng prostitutes waiting upstairs] u.s.t. bubble fart [Tag utót fart + sabáy along with + tá'e excrement]

Mix-Mix (5%)

Language mixing is a common occurrence in all Phillipine languages. It represents the blend of two or more languages within any given word, phrase, or sentence.

akínse't katapusán paydays [Sp a quince the fifteenth + Tag katapusán end (e.g., of month] anóng say mo What do you think? [Tag anó what? + -ng[link] + Eng say + Tag mo you] baby bubot childish [Eng baby + Tag bubót unripe, still green (fruit)] bakál boy male prostitute [Hill (Bs) bakál buy + Eng boy, also PLAY upon Eng call boy] baw lang agree [Eng bow + Tag lang only, just] bolják bald [M + RED Sp calvo bald + PLAY on name Kojak] kumander díla' talkative [Eng commander + Tag díla' tongue] labnát need for loving [PLAY Eng love + Tag lagnát fever] pa-epék hypocrite [Tag pa- causative + Eng effect] salitang kantó street slang [Tag salitá language + -ng [link] + Sp canto corner]
